

AMANDA GRAHAM, MPA

Amanda Graham brings over 20 years of experience working with nonprofit agencies. Receiving her Master's Degree in Public Administration, specializing in nonprofit management, from New York University, Amanda has worked and consulted for dozens of nonprofit agencies. Specifically, she has extensive experience in the arts, sports and recreation centers, counseling and social service agencies, religious nonprofits, and international charities in both Canada and the United States. Her work in Canada included capital campaign management, feasibility studies, and foundation and government grant writing.

Amanda is currently the owner of AG Philanthropy, a fund development consulting firm specializing in planning, grant writing, foundation research, sponsorship development and audits, and capital campaigns. She has a passion for helping small and medium-size nonprofit agencies with limited budgets achieve their strategic goals. She is a member of the Association of Fundraising Professionals and the Junior League of Colorado Springs.
